

Global mobility

Optimise your cross-border and internationally mobile workforce with our global mobility expertise.

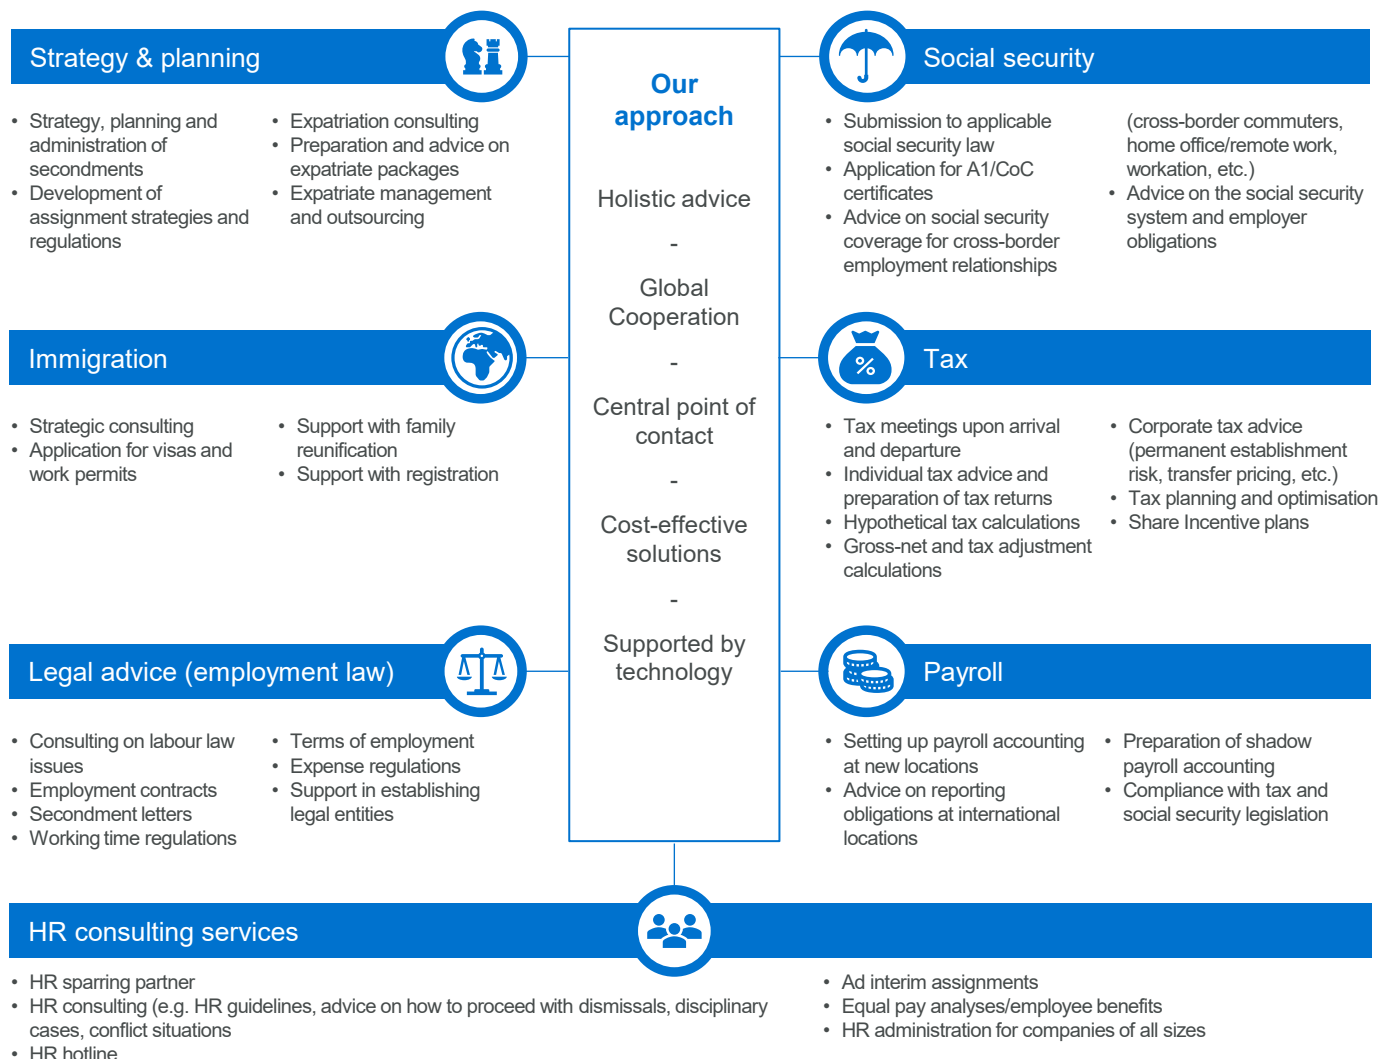

Global companies need a flexible workforce which can be internationally mobile. To attract talent worldwide and remain attractive, companies must offer fair remuneration and working conditions, flexible working hours and comprehensive support.

Cross-border working models such as remote working, workations and secondments, as well as in general international hirings or assignments pose complex challenges in the areas of tax and social security law, labour and residence tax law, payroll accounting and corporate taxes. Compliance with legal regulations and employee safety are paramount.

We support you and your employees in every step.

Complex challenges require experienced partners – trust in our expertise.
